Stereo Imaging and Depth Analysis

In this assignment, I used the data from KITTI dataset images. In this model, adjusting the parameters to get the most accurate depth analysis filter was most challenging part which took lot of experimentation with different sets of values to reach at a result. I have provided plots for disparity and depth analysis for each image using matplotlib and opencv library. The results and test images are attached alongwith the code.